Subject: The "American Dream"

To the Department of Justice

I do not understand all that is going on with Microsoft and Bill Gates. I do know that Microsoft has been beneficial in the pioneer in the computer industry, and has been responsible for making it possible for people like me to enjoy a computer that an average person can understand and operate.

Bill Gates is a SELF MADE person. He is certainly a fine example of what a person can achieve with determination and hard work. He created Microsoft and with the help of his friends and employees made it a "mega-huge" company. Now the Justice Department has decided he is too big??? I guess the "American Dream" is only for people who dream small.

You can only be what you want to be if you don't want to be too much.....is that it??

Bill Gates and Microsoft has done so much to help so many people; yet he has been persecuted by the American Justice Department. Isn't it about time you started concentrating on an issue that matters.....go after the "bad guys" and leave the decent, dream achieving Americans do what their hard work, genius ability, and tenacity allows them to do!!

From a disgruntled and disappointed American citizen....
